Age-related changes in DNA synthesis in the rat brain during aging. We have investigated the age-related changes in the incorporation of tritiated thymidine into rat brain DNA during the lifespan of the individual and compared the results with those of previous studies performed on the rat cerebellum, cerebral cortex, and spinal cord. The results are expressed as a percentage of the incorporation of tritiated thymidine in DNA of 12-month-old animals, which served as a control. In the frontal cortex a progressive decrease in the thymidine labelling (percentage of tritiated thymidine incorporation) was found from the age of 3 to 12 months, but this decrease was more pronounced from 6 to 12 months. In contrast, in the occipital cortex the decrease in the thymidine incorporation started at the age of 2 months. On the other hand, the thymidine incorporation in the cerebellum remained almost unchanged from 3 months of age to the age of 12 months. The percentage of tritiated thymidine incorporation in DNA of the spinal cord showed a marked decrease from the age of 3 months. The results of the present study demonstrate significant regional differences in DNA synthesis during the lifespan of the individual and, in particular, support the view that DNA synthesis in the hippocampus and brain stem decreases from the age of 3 months, whereas it is preserved or even increases in the frontal cortex. Q: Prove  $1^{2^n} + 2^{2^n} + 3^{2^n} + \dots + n^{2^n} \equiv 2^{2^n} - 1 \pmod{2^{n+1}}$  Prove that

$1^{2^n} + 2^{2^n} + 3^{2^n} + \dots + n^{2^n} \equiv 2^{2^n} - 1 \pmod{2^{n+1}}$  I've been trying to get this to work for a while, but no luck. A:

$$\sum_{k=1}^n k^{2^n} \equiv \sum_{k=1}^n \left( k^{2^{n-1}} + 2k^{2^{n-2}} + \dots + k \right) \pmod{2^{n+1}}$$
